

The Forbidden Packet II: Forbidden Harder

Another packet of things that can't be used for ACRONYM, by Erik Nelson

1. This phrase titles the first single by the terrible metal supergroup Brides of Destruction. In one film, the Julianne Moore-played Linda Partridge repeatedly uses this phrase while talking to her husband's lawyer. This phrase begins the chorus of a song that also asks "can you cut from their floated budgets?" That song is by Cake. In another film, a man is told to do this after confusing Vladimir Lenin with John Lennon at a bowling alley. For 10 points, identify this emphatic request for silence frequently told to Donny in The Big Lebowski.

Answer: shut the fuck up

2. Women's rights activist Ida Craddock condemned Anthony Comstock in one work in this genre. Another work of this type by entrepreneur George Eastman curiously asked "Why wait?" This type of work titles a two-part song on Pantera's The Great Southern Trendkill as well as a record store on The Simpsons. One of these works by Elliott Smith curiously misspelled his name, and another one addressed to an imaginary friend named Boddah was written by Kurt Cobain. For 10 points, name these documents composed just before their writers kill themselves.

Answer: suicide notes

3. B.O.B. notes "I've got drink and smoke" in a song titled for this activity. In a December 2015 tweet to the Dallas Stars, the Carolina Hurricanes demonstrated a complete lack of understanding of this activity. The namesake of this activity also tweeted about it, along with a GIF from the movie "Clueless." Several viral tweets suggest that various looks occur after 20 or so minutes of this activity. For 10 points, name these two things that are more likely to mean fucking than watching House of Cards.

Answer: Netflix and chill

4. Julianne Hough defeated her brother on Lip Sync Battle by performing "All About That Bass" and this song. One character notices a KKK mask curiously draped over something in the music video for this song, which begins by noting that "sometimes something beautiful happens in this world." Two of this song's performers hold up a congratulatory cake in the video for this song, which one performer says describes the "best 30 seconds" of his life. For 10 points, name this song by Akon and The Lonely Island about a romantic encounter.

Answer: I Just Had Sex

5. Urban Dictionary's top definition of this phrase explains it with the story of a man illegally parking at Home Depot. A recent spike this phrase's popularity was likely caused by a video made by WelvenDaGreat. A song for named for this phrase is begins with a Warren G skit and appears after "Nothin' But a G Thang" on Dr. Dre's The Chronic. This is the punchline of a joke that offers a choice of cassette tapes or another format. For 10 points, name this phrase that 15-year-old Brady Olson used when he polled at 9% in a Democratic election survey.

Answer: deez nutz

6. This work was created at a Romanoff's restaurant by former child actor Delmar Watson. In 2014, one person who appears in this work stated she was afraid that something else in it was going to "come onto my plate." An homage to this 1957 work is seen at Haley's photography exhibition on an episode of Modern Family. It was also recreated in 1993 with Anna Nicole Smith replacing the original model, who died in a 1967 car accident. For 10 points, identify this image showing an Italian movie star observing the anatomy of Mariska Hargitay's mother.

Answer: the photo of Sophia Loren looking at Jayne Mansfield's breasts [accept basically any answer that names both women as long as it doesn't say Mansfield was staring at Loren]

7. Before its singer's death, this band was rounded out by Tim Morse and Josh Martin. This band covered the theme from Three's Company on its unexpectedly cheery album Picnic of Love. Another album by this band, It Just Gets Worse, features songs like "Sweatshops are Cool" and "I Gave NAMBLA Pictures of your Kid." Appropriately, this Seth Putnam-fronted band's logo consists of two letters shaped like certain intimate body parts. For 10 points, name this grindcore band sometimes known as AxCx due to its ridiculously offensive name.

Answer: Anal Cunt [accept A.C. or AxCx before the latter is mentioned]

8. This scenario occurs between two cops and Jason Sudeikis's character in Hall Pass, as well as to Brandy Klark just after she screams "Aloe Vera" in the film The To-Do List. After this happens to Richard Hayden, a character played by David Spade, he claims that he was "reading documents" to Tommy Callahan. Another instance of this, which is parodied in a Fountains of Wayne video, happens while a man fantasizes about Phoebe Cates. For 10 points, name this embarrassing scenario depicted in that scene from Fast Times at Ridgemont High.

Answer: being caught masturbating [or close equivalents or whatever]

Moderator/player Note - pretty specific answer required on this one

9. One instance of this verbal action occurs after Ryan Gosling takes off his shirt in Crazy Stupid Love. The status of The Martian suggests that a rule regarding this action has been relaxed, though it has only happened once in a James Bond film when M did it in Skyfall. Other examples of this include a Naomi Watts-played character denying motherhood of Samara Morgan, and a 1970's broadcaster being overly reliant on a teleprompter. For 10 points, name this type of profanity that can supposedly be done in a film once without jeopardizing its rating.

Answer: the use of the word "fuck" in a PG-13 film [prompt on partial]

10. Though it has nothing to do with The Lord of the Rings, one work in this genre centers on a hunter named Azog, who is cornered in a cave after killing certain baby animals. Chris Pratt read a work in this genre for MTV News in 2015 and noted "this shit works!" Another work in this genre focuses on a "Billionaire" title character who turned the narrator gay. One prominent author in this genre is Christie Sims, whose book covers generally depict scantily-clad women in front of a prehistoric landscape. For 10 points, name this genre whose titles include Taken By the T-Rex.

Answer: dinosaur erotica [accept very close equivalents; prompt on partial answers]

11. This is the best known work by the author of the novels Shackling Water and Rage is Back. The back of this work surprisingly includes a quote from David Byrne, who notes he "really did laugh out loud" at it. The narrator of this work, which is dedicated to Vivien, notes "I know you're not thirsty," and it takes place when the "whales huddle down in the deep." The cover of this Adam Mansbach book obscures part of its title behind an illustration of the moon. For 10 points, name this "children's book for adults" about a kid who won't go to bed.

Answer: Go the Fuck to Sleep

12. This phrase titles the two different albums by west-coast rapper AMG. Kurupt and YG guest on a song with this name from the mixtape #BitchImTheShit by Tyga. A 2015 song with this name received an unofficial remix by Korn. and was a stark contrast to the previous single "FourFiveSeconds." The singer of that song warns "don't call me on my bluff" before she demands to receive "what you owe me." For 10 points, name this phrase that titles a Rihanna song about a person who owes her monetary goods.

Answer: Bitch Better Have My Money [or, in AMG's case, Bitch Betta Have My Money]

13. While commenting on this action, its alleged perpetrator also noted Supertramp's album sales were through the roof that week. This supposed action bears a surprising resemblance to an episode of the TV drama Black Mirror. Isabel Oakeshott and Michael Ashcroft were the first to claim this action occurred, and it allegedly took place at a Piers Gaveston Society initiation, though some believe Ashcroft fabricated it after a falling out from the Conservative Party. For 10 points, name this rumor about a world leader's supposed bestiality.

Answer: Piggate [or "Hameron" or "David Cameron putting his dick in a pig" or basically any answer that eludes to both of the underlying things things]

14. The owner of this thing unironically denied a Weekly World News article that it had exploded on an airplane. The possessor of this thing was alleged to be a man after the performer was not allowed to touch it in Eminem's song "We Made You." In December 2015, CNet reported that an emoji of this thing crashed Apple's App Store. A champagne glass was seen balanced on top of this thing on the Winter 2014 cover of Paper magazine. For 10 points, name this large body part presumably enjoyed by Kanye West.

Answer: Kim Kardashian's butt [prompt on partial answers; accept synonyms for 'butt']

15. One of these devices is found in Ivan Landsness's room at the Alexander Motel, and its use leads to that man partially losing his sight. A re-designed one of these devices is used on Mark Hoffman, who uses it to break his hand. Another of these devices is basically just a pit of syringes. A more iconic one of these devices, which are generally explained with a cassette tape. would kill Amanda Young by ripping her jaw apart. For 10 points, name these devices used for "playing games," often administered by Jigsaw.

Answer: traps from the Saw movies [accept 'games' or 'murder bits' or whatever in place of 'traps' as long as Saw is mentioned]

16. The music video for this song, which was released on Headphones Records, was allegedly directed by Chuck Berry. Though it has nothing to do with Taylor Swift, the chorus of this song does begin by noting that "haters wanna hate," and later states that "lovers wanna love," A remix of this song contrasts "sippin Cris" with the title action, and its music video depicts a woman being covered in a certain person's "Doo Doo Butter." For 10 points, name this parody of "Ignition" by R. Kelly, which was recorded by Dave Chappelle.

Answer: (I Wanna) Pee on You [accept anything reasonably close that mention 'pee' or 'piss']

17. In Danger 5, Claire does this to Emperor Hirohito after breaking a bottle over his head. In 2015, a South Dakota man did this to himself and tried to blame it on “a black guy.” Rapper The Incredible Mack went “back to” his “palace fast” and had to wear a cast after suffering this fate. While holding Molly hostage, a film character named Mr. Walters also suffers this fate at the hands of Schmidt. For 10 points, name that unfortunate action that happens to that Key & Peele character, as well as a Rob Riggle-played character in 21 Jump Street.

Answer: being shot in the dick [or similar; accept things like ‘getting your dick shot off’]

18. Dan Rather called his experience with this substance a “special kind of hell.” Charles Romley Alder Wright was the first person to synthesize this substance, which is the subject of a song that claims it’s “my life and it’s my wife.” In a film based on an Irvine Welsh novel, a character asks “who needs reasons when you’ve got” this substance, some of which was found in Layne Staley’s hand upon his death. Nikki Sixx wrote a book about the “diaries” of, for 10 points, what often-injected opioid?

Answer: heroin

19. Most of this film is framed around scenes set at the Pan American Broadcast Company. Characters in this film include Jack Anders, a cameraman who is hit by a spear before being shot by Alan Yates. A documentary within this film is titled The Last Road to Hell, and other parts of it depict the death of real animals. The director of this film was detained until he could prove its actors were alive, including a nude woman who appeared to be fully impaled on a pole. For 10 points, name this 1980 Ruggero Deodato film about a man-eating tribes.

Answer: Cannibal Holocaust

20. Piercing expert Elayne Angel noted “he’s definitely a giver” when being interviewed about how she added one such modification to this object. The owner of this object shared a text message from Steven Tyler after it was seen in Stockholm while on the Strut Tour. Shortly after this object appeared, its owner apologized before beginning to play “It Ain’t Over ‘Til Its Over.” For 10 points, name this object that made an unexpected appearance during a performance of its owner’s cover of the Guess Who song “American Woman.”