

Packet by Mike Cheyne, Tejas Raje, Bernadette Spencer and Jon Pinyan

A song on this album says "Heavy is the head that wears the crown / Don't let the greatness get you down". Another complains that you "Had the world in the palm of your hands / But you fucking choked" and that (#) "You fall asleep during foreplay". An extension to this album has a remix with Mary J. Blige singing "Then I wake up in the morn' / Got a guy in my bed like 'Hello good morn'" and another remix with a rapper claiming (*) "I'm a legend, I'm irreverent" that earned more radio play than the original song. The title track, one of five to hit #1 on the Billboard charts, features the singer pleading "Let's go all the way tonight / No regrets, just love". FTP, name this album featuring "Last Friday Night", "E.T." and "California Gurls", by Katy Perry.

ANSWER: Teenage Dream [do not accept "Teenage Dream: The Complete Confection"]

Wittenbauer's theorem states that trisection points can be used to generate this kind of object. If for some p-norm, a law named for this object holds, then p must equal 2. Varignon's theorem shows that (#) connecting the midpoints of the sides of any quadrilateral yields this kind of shape. The sum of the squares of this figure's sides is equal to the sum of the squares of its diagonals, and those diagonals (*) bisect each other. This figure can be used to calculate the magnitude of a cross product or the determinant of a 2-by-2 matrix. Any pair of adjacent angles are supplementary and opposite angles are congruent in this shape. FTP, name this type of quadrilateral, of which rectangles and rhombuses are a type, in which both pairs of opposite sides are pointing in the same direction.

ANSWER: parallelogram

This was the surname of Robert Jackson's number two man, the Executive Trial Counsel, during the Nuremberg trials. Another man with this surname spent years trying to write a four-volume history entitled The Old South. That man with this surname was told by Carl Sandburg "to find out what this man Hitler is made of" after that man left the University of Chicago to go to Germany. This is the surname of the current Chairman of the Motion Picture Association of America, who himself was the son of a Senator who was censured for campaign fundraising improprieties in 1967. This was the surname of William, the American Ambassador to Nazi Germany whose experiences are recounted in Erik Larson's book In the Garden of Beasts. A politician with this surname was succeeded as Senator by Richard Blumenthal. For 10 points, name this family of Connecticut Senator Chris.

ANSWER: Dodd

After an earthquake destroys this man's headquarters, he cries out "COME FORTH," apparently reviving an Italian man who was crushed in the rubble. He became rich after founding an import-export business and took power in his native country thanks to the illegal machinations of Leon Fortunato. Born in Cluj County, this man was created through artificial insemination and was the son of a couple named Sorin and Marilena. He appears to rise from the dead after he is assassinated by Chaim Rosenzweig. This man becomes the Supreme Potentate of the Global Community and orders the One World Unity Army to conquer Jerusalem, all of which occurs in the wake of the Rapture. For 10 points, name this villain, the Antichrist from the Left Behind series, whose name is similar to a Romanian dictator's.

ANSWER: Nicolae Carpathia [accept either]

This man forms a bromance with Jehonadab after he kills forty two people at "the shearing-house." A watchman notes he drives furiously, suggesting his reputation as a fast-driving charioteer was widespread. While he is incorrectly labeled a "son of Omri," this man is described as giving tribute to Shalmaneser III on a Black Obelisk. When this man visits a woman with painted eyes, she calls him "thou Zimri, thy master's murderer." He masterminds the slaying of Kings Jehoram and Ahaziah and then commands palace eunuchs to throw Jehoram's mother out of a window, where dogs eat her body. This man is anointed by Elisha to "avenge the blood of Naboth" and violently wipe out the worshippers of Baal. For 10 points, name this king of Israel best known for killing Jezebel and wiping out of the house of Ahab.

ANSWER: Jehu

In one work of art in this building, a goat on the far right leaps out of a pen, while the rather unintelligible left side depicts a dove and other animals. The namesake of this building can be seen presenting a model of it to the Virgin Mary in another work of art. This building contains a work of art that shows a man enclosing another in his robe as he kisses him, with an array of people holding torches and clubs dispassionately walking around them. Its namesake presumably built this location out of penitence for his father's sin of usury, as that older man, Reginaldo, was encountered in the Seventh Circle of Hell in the Divine Comedy. This building is best known for its fresco cycles of the Life of Christ and the Life of the Virgin which were painted by Giotto. Its more familiar name refers to the fact that the land where this place was built abutted a Roman building. For 10 points, name this church in Padua.

ANSWER: The Scrovegni Chapel [or the Arena Chapel]

This person volunteered to be a character witness to protect W.E.B. Du Bois from accusations of being a Communist spy. During Marian Anderson's visit to Washington D.C. to perform at the Lincoln Memorial, she stayed at the home of this person. In a film appearance, this person is the son of an apple farmer who invents the electric guitar and surfing. This person wrote the 1949 article "Why Socialism?" and predicted the Fourth World War would be fought with "sticks and stones." He was played by Yahoo Serious in a 1988 film about his youth. In 1952, this man was offered the ceremonial position of President of Israel and he joined Bertrand Russell in producing a manifesto warning of the danger of nuclear weapons. In 1905, he produced four groundbreaking papers as part of his scientific annus mirabilis. For 10 points, name this physicist who developed the general theory of relativity.

ANSWER: Albert Einstein

When Mary Eben saw this thing putting on his boots, she ran screaming from the room. In 1942, it caused Wilhelmina of the Netherlands to faint by appearing wearing a frock coat and top hat. William Mumler reportedly photographed this being during a session with a woman known only as "Mrs. Tundall"; that photograph has widely been denounced as a hoax. When Winston Churchill saw this being, Churchill was smoking a cigar and naked and responded with "You seem to have me at a disadvantage." This being, which was last claimed to have been seen in the early 1980's, has reportedly been seen by Grace Coolidge and heard by Margaret Truman. A photograph of this being, which probably just uses double exposure, features him behind his widow Mary Todd. For 10 points, name this spectral being, supposedly the apparition of the sixteenth President.

ANSWER: Abraham Lincoln's ghost

At age eight, this man received his first pet: a Circassian cat. He is unsuccessful in his attempts to date Christy Henshaw and in an alternate future is seen married to the director of the Daystrom Institute. Madge Sinclair played this man's mother, Silva, the fourth time the actress had played the mother of the actor playing this character. Other relationships this man engaged in were with the mysterious Lieutenant Aquiel Uhnari and a simulation of Dr. Leah Brahms. This character was named in honor of a quadriplegic fan who had died in 1975. His subordinates include the anxious Lieutenant Reginald Barclay. Originally seen as a helmsman, this man played Watson in holodeck simulations alongside his best friend, Data, as Holmes. For 10 points, name this blind chief engineer from Star Trek: The Next Generation.

ANSWER: Geordi La Forge [accept either]

Racial violence in this city began with the 1909 lynching of William James, as well as the later 1967 murder of black soldier Robert Hunt. Its Chief of Police was shot in 1969 violence stopped when Governor Richard Ogilvie sent in the National Guard. Rooster Cogburn opened a bar here after the Civil War, and it was the inspiration for Eden in Charles Dickens' Martin Chuzzlewit. Stephen Foster wrote a song about being "way down" in this city, which is where Magnolia Manor and Fort Defiance State Park are located. Huck and Jim intend to go to this city to obtain Jim's freedom in Huckleberry Finn, but they end up sailing past it. This city has the lowest elevation of any within Illinois and is located at the confluence of the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers. For 10 points, name this southernmost city in Illinois, which shares its name with a city in Egypt.

ANSWER: Cairo

The man who wrote this work originally passed on it to write a P.G. Wodehouse inspired musical named Jeeves. Its original Broadway star hated it, saying "it was like Beirut and I fought like a banshee." In one scene, a retired officer says he is "still called an admiral yet I gave up the sea long ago." That scene in this musical features a chorus in which officers say that a tour has "been an incredible success." At one point in this musical, a game of musical chairs represents a power struggle during the song "The Art of the Possible." This musical begins in a movie theater on July 26, 1952. The title character recounts her successes in the song "Goodnight and Thank You" in which she takes a variety of lovers. Its best known song occurs as the singer stands at the balcony of the Casa Rosada. For 10 points, name this Andrew Lloyd Webber musical about an Argentinean First Lady.

ANSWER: Evita

This man first broke the law by using a pipe bomb to murder players of a high school baseball team after Connie Littleton says she was raped. Beginning in 1956, this character was actually impersonated by a red-haired, mustached man, although the deception wasn't revealed until 1981. This man disguises himself as a merchant to fool Veronica Vreeland into purchasing "Worry Men" that contain electronic brainwashing chips, and he kidnaps Barbara Gordon and various runaway children in the "Haunted Knight" storyline. He's not the Film Freak, but he was the first of the successful escapees to be captured during the Knightfall storyline. This villain is an expert in mind control and is usually accompanied by a pet monkey known as "Carroll Lewis." For 10 points, name this Batman villain whose gimmick is inspired by Alice in Wonderland.

ANSWER: The Mad Hatter [or Jervis Tetch, either part]

At a café in this city, a man asks how to say "banana daiquiri" in the native language. In another location in this city, a man says he would give "four million just to be able to take a piss without it hurting" and tells a story about a man who "invented Las Vegas." At a strip club here, Senator Geary shouts "break a cracker" during the performance of a stripper called "Superman." During a birthday party in this city, a man gloats that "we're bigger than U.S. Steel," despite the protagonist's concern over a suicide bombing he just saw. An assassin in this city uses a coat hanger to strangle Johnny Ola, but is shot before he can murder Hyman Roth. In this city, a man kisses his brother on the mouth and says "I know it was you—you broke my heart." For 10 points, name this city from which Michael Corleone flees in The Godfather Part II after Batista is overthrown by Fidel Castro.

ANSWER: Havana

This musician reportedly once worked as a vacuum cleaner salesman and told Aldous Huxley "Well, I assure you sir, this thing sucks." Another musician wrote "Why Doesn't Someone Give Him a Pepsi?" in reference to this man's angst-ridden moods when he demanded Pepsis. This performer mocked the Beatles with the song "Beatle Bones 'n' Smokin' Stones," and it has been suggested his stage name was his uncle's pet name for his penis. This man's most famous album had all songs written in one 8 and a half hour session, with rehearsals full of emotional and physical abuse of his musicians, whom he assigned names like "Rockette Morton" and "Antennae Jimmy Semens." His albums included Ice Cream for Crow and Shiny Beast (Bat Chain Puller), but he is best known for 1969's Trout Mask Replica. For 10 points, name this buddy of Frank Zappa, the avant-garde leader of the Magic Band.

ANSWER: Captain Beefheart [or Don Van Vliet, or Don Glen Vliet]

At one point in this story, a character whispers that another man's "inner linings of the cuff" contains cards helping the narrator cheat. This story's narrator says his name is "plebian" and that there is no need to sully the "fair page...with my real appellation." He meets his nemesis while at a school run by Dr. Bransby. The narrator of this story is continually thwarted by an enemy, who prevents him from cheating or seducing women. In a key scene, the narrator is horrified to find that a fellow student at his English school has changed his facial appearance. It ends with the title character stabbing another person, who then suddenly appears and says "In me didst thou exist" and warns "how utterly thou hast murdered thyself." For 10 points, name this Edgar Allan Poe short story in which the title character is haunted by his doppelganger.

ANSWER: "William Wilson"

Sandra Uttley's conspiracy driven book about this event calls for a Public Inquiry to investigate how one participant was allowed to run summer camps for so many years. This event led to the Snowdrop Campaign, which took its name from the month in which this event was perpetrated. During it, the perpetrator entered a gymnasium after previously severing the cables at the bottom of a telegraph pole in the parking lot. It was carried out by Thomas Hamilton, a disturbed man who had been thwarted in his attempts to become a Scout leader. In tribute to the victims of this event like Kirk Jingle, Ted Christopher added a new verse to the Bob Dylan song "Knockin' on Heaven's Door." After this event, the Cullen Report led to a 1997 Firearms Act that effectively banned private ownership of handguns. For 10 points, name this 1996 event in which seventeen people were killed at a primary school in Scotland.

ANSWER: Dunblane school massacre

The bad guys in this movie have artificial ninjas called "Otomato" that are created by the fictional Kanemitsu Corporation. The major villain of this film, McDaggett, leads the "Rehabs," who kill the Japanese-American parents of Nikko, a computer whiz living in Cadillac Heights. Until Sin City, this was the last Hollywood screenplay worked on by Frank Miller. This movie begins with Anne Lewis dying and unlike the other films in the series, features Robert John Burke in the lead role. This film's plot point involves a Japanese zaibatsu purchasing controlling stake in OCP and attempting to build Delta City in Detroit. In its final scene, the title character tells a villain that "my friends call me Murphy." For 10 points, name this 1993 film, the third in a series about a mechanical law enforcement officer.

ANSWER: RoboCop 3

In an interview about this event, Joe Ruklick called himself "a walking footnote." Gary Pomerantz's book about this event is subtitled "the dawn of a new era." This event ruined the reputation of Darrall Imhoff, who only played twenty minutes due to foul trouble. Memphis coach Josh Pastner claims his father has footage of this event, which apparently has no extant television recording. A persistent urban legend about this event says that the final 46 seconds never took place after spectators stormed the floor upon seeing either a lay-up or an alley-oop slam dunk. With about six minutes to go, this event featured mass fouling by the New York Knicks of all but a certain player. For 10 points, name this 1962 event in which a Philadelphia Warriors NBA player put up triple digits in a game.

ANSWER: Wilt Chamberlain's 100 point game

One character who is this type of animal loves the ice cream "Frosty Pep" and uses the alias of "Danger Woman." Another of these animals was the namesake of a cartoon show in which he fought the group M.A.V.O. with the help of the inventor Newton Gimmick. Yet another of these animals first appeared in Hold That Pose and frequently runs afoul of J. Audubon Woodlore. That character performs a very memorable dance in the cartoon In the Bag in which he is taught to pick up trash with the rest of his animal clan. The head of Higher for Hire, Rebecca Cunningham, is one of these animals. One of these animals was a hit 1980's toy that "read stories" by playing audio tape cassettes. Kit Cloudkicker from Tale Spin is one of these animals, as was the aforementioned Mr. Ruxpin. For 10 points, name this type of animal exemplified by Boo Boo and Yogi.

ANSWER: bears

One collection this bullshit poet wrote starts with a stupid fucking poem about a statue of a bronze horse complete with nauseating praise of its rider. Like Ovid, he wrote a poem starting with the word Psittacus (sit-a-cus) about a parrot, and like Martial, he wrote a poem praising the emperor's pederastic fuckbuddy Earinus, except theirs were half-decent. Fortunately only four lines survive of his On the Germanic War, a guaranteed shitfest considering what survives praises the informer Fabius Veiento as well as, like basically everything this fucker wrote, Domitian. One work this hack cranked out opens with a prayer answered by Tisiphone, leading to an oath taken in the court of Adrastus. Of his short works the only half-decent ones are about a road being built to Naples and one where an insomniac bitches to the personified Sleep. The aforementioned endless goddamn epic he wrote has a scene where Melinippus' brains are gnawed on by Tydeus. Luckily he died before he could crap out more than four books of an epic about Achilles. For 10 points, name this jackass who wrote the awful Silvae as well as the mediocre Achilleid and Thebaid.

ANSWER: Publius Papinius Statius

[Byzantine/Slavic]

This man defeated Michael Rangabe near Adrianople, and was able to besiege Constantinople. He arranged a conference with Leo the Armenian, but was betrayed and ambushed. In revenge, he sacked Adrianople and prepared to attack Constantinople before he died in 814. He defeated the Avars early in his reign, bringing his empire to the borders of Charlemagne's. This father of Omurtag the Builder was responsible for his nation's first law code, uniting his people and the Slavs. He may be best remembered for defeating Nikephoros I at the Battle of Pliska and turning his skull into a drinking cup. For 10 points, name this khan, the namesake of Bulgaria's greatest ever quidditch player.

ANSWER: Krum

[TV Show Episode]

One character is called a "Snitch Bitch" by his roommates in a group home, after Herc had previously let slip that he knew about a murder. Another character tells his former enemy that he feels like a pawn on a chessboard, and that former enemy calls him a soldier. In this episode, Prezbo receives a present from Dukie, but is disappointed to later see him dealing drugs. Colvin is forced to end his special class, but he is able to persuade Wee-Bey to allow him to raise Namond. Marlo finally takes over the last remnants of the Barksdale crew, as Bodie is killed trying to keep his corner. For 10 points, name this episode, the finale of Season 4 of The Wire, which takes its name from its primary characters finishing middle school.

ANSWER: Final Grades

[Sports]

The first person to accomplish this feat was Bert Patenaude, although it was not confirmed until 2006. A controversial one of these prompted the call "they think it's all over ... It is now!". Laszlo Kiss accomplished this feat in the shortest time, and was the first substitute to do so. Only Sandor Kocsis and Gerd Muller have done this in back-to-back games, and Gabriel Batistuta did this exactly four years apart. The only event in which this did not happen was 2006, and Xherdan Shaqiri recently accomplished the first left-footed one of these. The youngest to do this was Pele, who accomplished this feat against France in 1958 while leading Brazil to their first ever win in this competition. For 10 points, name this goalscoring feat accomplished in soccer's most prestigious competition.

ANSWER: World Cup Hat Trick (Prompt on partial answers)

[Fictional Place]

This location is on the north bank of the God's Eye and was the site of a duel between Daemon and Aemond, which saw both of them fall to their deaths. This place is currently held by Bonifer Hasty, leader of the Holy Hundred. This was the site of a tournament which featured the mysterious Knight of the Laughing Tree and saw the Kingsguard name its youngest ever member. The namesake of this place bankrupted the Riverlands in order to pay for its construction, but was then roasted by Aegon the Conqueror's dragons. Tyrion Lannister gave this place to Janos Slynt, but after he was sent to the Wall it was given to Littlefinger. Arya Stark was a cupbearer at this location, and she later escaped from it along with Gendry and Hot Pie. For 10 points, name this largest castle in Westeros, which was recently held by Roose Bolton and Tywin Lannister, where Jaime rescued Brienne from a bear.

ANSWER: Harrenhal

[Barbarians]

The tallest rock sculpture in Europe is a statue of this man made in the 1990s by a Romanian businessman. This man won a major victory against two legions commanded by Cornelius Fuscus at Tapae, after which he was crowned king. At the second battle of Tapae, he defeated another Roman army after which Domitian was forced to pay him tribute money. This man's kingdom of Dacia was conquered after the siege of Sarmizegetusa and he was forced to flee. His head was found by Tiberius Claudius Maximus, and he was portrayed committing suicide on Trajan's Column. For 10 points, name this barbarian leader who was defeated by Rome.

ANSWER: Decebalus

[India]

These people controlled the fort of Janjira, which was never conquered by invading armies. Some of these people speak a dialect called Makrani, and they have an annual ceremony called Pir Mangho Urs where people give offerings to sacred crocodiles. One member of these people was the advisor and alleged lover of the only female ruler of Delhi, Razia Sultana. The most noted member of these people created a canal system in the town of Khadki, which is now Aurangabad. That man taught guerrilla warfare to Shahaji, the father of Shivaji, and was originally a slave from Harar. Today, many of these people live in Karnataka and Gujarat, and they are largely Muslim, although they retain some culture from their original homelands. For 10 points, name this ethnic group whose members are largely descended from Bantu slaves.

ANSWER: Siddis (Accept Kaffirs, Habshi or anything indicating that they are Africans in India, Pakistan or South Asia, or more specific answers like Ethiopians)

[Movies]

One film set in this country features the aftereffects of the real life "Hood Event", perpetrated by Billy Zane. Another film set in this country sees its main characters anachronistically play Gears of War, and its main character befriends a young soccer fan called Beckham. That film also sees a mercenary leader played by Ralph Fiennes massacre prisoners who were wanted dead or alive. One film from this country was controversial for its portrayal of an evil Jewish doctor played by Gary Busey harvesting organs from civilian prisoners. That film also featured American soldiers massacring a wedding party, based on a real event in Mukaradeeb, as well as committing atrocities at Abu Ghraib. For 10 points, name this country which is the setting of many recent war films including Valley of the Wolves and The Hurt Locker.

ANSWER: Iraq

[Children's Lit]

In order to end a series of world wars, this man attempts to unite the world under one government, starting with Brazil and Uganda. After becoming ruler of the world, this man married Petra Arkanian when her husband was forced to leave Earth. Along with his sister, this man helped unite the world by blogging through their usernames Locke and Demosthenes. This man's younger brother would later write his biography, The Hegemon, although that brother was widely hated for committing genocide against the Formics. As a child, this man was jealous of that brother due to his own rejection from Battle School, and would often bully him. For 10 points, name this older brother of Valentine and Ender Wiggin.

ANSWER: Peter Wiggin

[Star Wars Mashup]

This man was abandoned by his mother Kycina after she “pleaded her belly” to avoid execution. Despite this, his father was executed and he was raised by a kindly foster mother and the droid TD-D9. This man was a master of the Vaapad form of lightning fast attacks, which he uses to become a successful thief. He was found guilty of both the robberies and of breaking Darth Bane’s Rule of Two, and was exiled to the colonies where he reunited with his son on a plantation. Later, he returns to England “in sincere penitence” for crimes such as serving Darth Sidious and killing Qui-Gon Jinn. For 10 points, name this Zabrak criminal created by Daniel Defoe and killed by Obi-Wan Kenobi.
ANSWER: Darth Moll Flanders

[Military History]

This battle took place on the sixth anniversary of one man’s rule, which he took to be a good omen. The losing side in this battle abandoned the strategy that had worked against Galerius and instead challenged the invading army by crossing a river. The winner took a risk by stretching his troops thin on order to avoid being flanked, but was rewarded when his cavalry managed to defeat that of the other side. The losing commander made an error in leaving his troops too close to the river, so many of them drowned when they attempted to retreat over the temporary wooden bridges they had created. Before the battle, the winning commander was allegedly commanded to use a certain sign, although it is debated whether that is the labarum or the chi-rho. For 10 points, name this battle outside of Rome which saw Constantine the Great defeated Maxentius to become Emperor of the Western Roman Empire.
ANSWER: Battle of the Milvian Bridge

Version:1.0 StartHTML:0000000181 EndHTML:0000012750 StartFragment:0000002792 EndFragment:0000012714
SourceURL:file:///localhost/Users/ianlenhoff/Downloads/TriconQuestions.docx

This work describes “tea girls, warm and sweet” that are “in the Somerset Maugham Suite”. The lead singer of this song states he doesn’t see “you guys rating / the kind of mate I’m contemplating”. The singer claims he prefers the “ultimate test of cerebral fitness” that’s “a show with everything but Yul (+) Brynner” over “a muddy old river or a reclining Buddha”. This song’s chorus states the title place will make a (*) “hard man humble” and “tough guys tumble”. It was written by two members of Abba and Broadway lyricist Tim Rice. Its music video ends with dancers surrounding the singer Murray Head on a floor of black and white squares. For 10 points, name this song covered by Mike Tyson in The Hangover Part II, originally from the concept album for the musical Chess, that describes a single evening in a certain Thai city.
ANSWER: “One Night in Bangkok”

Although it’s not by P.D. Eastman, one work that begins with this action outlines the protagonist’s search for acceptance from various animals and industrial structures. In a haiku by Issa, being tender to “young sparrows” will inevitably lead to this action. In Shinto, Izanami created spirits called “benjo-gami” that ensure the proper execution of this action. Soseki is claimed to have said this action brought him (+) “physiological delight” in a section of an essay that argues that the place for this action should ideally remain in a “degree of dimness”. That section of In Praise of Shadows argues against the Western tendency to over-illuminate and expose the (*) indecent nature of this action. Another book about this action is part of the “My Body Science” series and ends with an illustration of a sitting boy and six different animals’ butts all performing this action. For 10 points, name this biological that “everyone” does according to a Japanese picture book by Taro Gomi that usually takes places on a toilet.

ANSWER: pooping [or pooing; defecating; or shitting; or having a bowel movement; or going number two for pansies, I guess; prompt on anything involving “bathroom” or “restroom” or “toilet” or “water closet”]

One man with this name is the head of Slough Press and wrote the poetry collection Li Po Laughing at the Lonely Moon. That man is a TAMU Creative Writing professor and a pioneer in the Texas beat poetry movement. A thinker with this name argued that Heidegger and others “tried to get out of the cul-de-sac of monological consciousness” in an essay that describes we subconsciously draw upon the “sense of things” called “To Follow a Rule”. Another man with this name was antagonized by the “Butt (+) Naked Brigade” and once claimed that “Jesus Christ was accused of being a murderer in his time” during BBC Focus interview. The most famous philosopher with this name wrote Sources of the Self and examined the “disenchantment” that has lead to the coexistence of atheism and belief in A () Secular Age. In 2012, a politician of this name was convicted of crimes against humanity for leading the rape-happy NPFL during the Sierra Leone Civil War. For 10 points, give this first and last name shared by the barbaric former president of Liberia.*

ANSWER: Charles Taylor [accept Chuck Taylor, even though nobody in this tossup goes by that name; prompt on “Charles”; prompt on “Taylor”; prompt on “C Taylor”]

The first successful marketing executive for this product created an annual “Jubilee” celebration that included a trip to The Garden that Loyalty Built and The Wishing Well to award members of successful “Ships”. This product was often marketed through the “carrot calling” comparison method. Brownie Wise, an early vice president of the company that owns this product was the first (+) woman to be on the cover of Businessweek. This product once advertised a patented “burping seal” that was best demonstrated through a form of direct selling that allowed housewives to earn income through holding social gatherings to advertise this household product. For 10 points, name this line of plastic food storage containers that is only sold through representatives that host its namesake “parties”.

ANSWER: Tupperware

The original floor of this building’s lobby was tiled with fanned patterns of small bricks and a purposely-constricted entrance that rounded “Jesus Christ Corner”. The architect’s prototype for round glass-covered Westin hotel in the same city was this building’s Radius Tower. Unlike its Illinois cousin, this building has a rooftop farm and beehive and is topped by the recently-reopened blue glass UFO-shaped restaurant called (+) Polaris. This building was designed by Embarcadero Center architect John C. Portman, and its old keychains embossed with the building’s silhouette line the wall behind this () hotel’s check-in desk. This gigantic hotel contains four wrought-iron and glass elevators in its giant 22-storey concrete atrium and is connected a MARTA stop via the Peachtree Plaza Mall. For 10 points, name this non-Rosemont hotel that hosted the 2012 and 2013 HSNCTs, located in the capital of Georgia.*

ANSWER: Hyatt Regency Atlanta [prompt on partial answers]